“ He was the best father what a son could have. No matter how far away his sons were from him, he always thought of them. He was an honest man and a good friend. He made his time when you needed it, he made it for pleasure, and when he wasn't there his thoughts were always with you. His life had ups and downs and he fought his way through everything that came his way. I could say so much more but words fail me because a special person like Derial Bivens left us much too early. His deeds live on through us now, his laughter will live on in us. R.I.P. Dad you are at a better place now.
