“ I will always remember Sue and Bud as good Christian people. Both loved to talk and share stories about people and things that they had done in their lifetime. Both knew how to laugh and have fun. Sue had a motherly instinct for everybody that she met. She loved her children and grands, and greats. There will be a hole that can't be filled now that she is gone. I know that Sue suffered from pain and sickness and even got to the point that she could no longer visit like she loved to do. I also know that she is no longer in pain. There will be no more worries or heartache for her. She has been united with Bud and our Savior. That fact gives me great comfort as I will miss and grieve for her.
